AN ALLEGED anti-Castro agent of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency was executed by firing squad at dawn Wednesday and three of his men were sentenced to death by a Havana revolutionary tribunal, the Cuban radio reported.

A Havana radio broadcast, monitored here, said three men received 20-year prison terms and another a 12-year imprisonment for counter-revolutionary activities.

The alleged CIA agent was identified as Angel Paleo Nieto, chief of a counter-revolutionary band. His three accomplices were named as Jose Manuel Rodriguez Suarez, Raciol Roger and Enrique Garcia Paolomio.

Manuel Alvarez Panego, Luis Prieto Fernandez and Ignacio Madruga Lence were sentenced to 20 years and Manuel Alvarez Pita to 12 years, the broadcast said.

According to the radio, Paleo Nieto was recruited by the U.S. Army in 1960 and was later trained as an agent of the CIA in a Florida training camp.

Paleo Nieto was entrusted by the CIA with securing information related to movement of ships in Havana and Mariel (north Pinar del Rio province), the radio said.

It added that he procured data on troop movements, military installations and economic and political reports.

(Paleo Nieto) arrived in Cuba with a shipload of Cuban repatriates in 1961, the broadcast said.
